Why are we asking for your help?

If you've ever been to Mexico, you know. If you haven't, please understand there are many dogs needing help.

We can't leave an injured dog lying on the side of the road, or drive by a puppy, barely able to stand, weak from starvation and dehydration.

Because we care, we help. But we can't do it alone.

Baja Dogs La Paz was formed in 2005 to help the neglected, abused and injured homeless dogs we saw in the streets every day.

We knew that without education and an aggressive spay and neuter program, any refuge we built would become a revolving door.

To date we have facilitated over 900 spay and neuter operations. We have created an education program and a safe refuge which, sadly, is always full.

Abused and neglected dogs are our priority. And we are making a difference.

Local children and adults are now bringing us puppies and dogs who are injured, starving or abused.

We take these precious animals, clean them up, get rid of their ticks, fleas and parasites, and take them to a veterinarian if they are sick or injured.

Then we spay or neuter each one and vaccinate against disease.

Safe at last.

From the minute they enter the refuge, we love them.

Caring volunteers come and spend time with them, cuddling, walking, playing and more.

Most of the healthy dogs run freely in the shelter, happy and safe while awaiting that special person to love just them.

Education is the key.

Family pets that have been exposed to disease and pests pose a serious health risk to children.

Thanks to our membership in WSPA (World Society for Protection of Animals), we have been provided with wonderful educational tools to help teach children the importance of vaccinations, of spaying and neutering their pets, and preventing fleas, ticks and parasites.

Above all, we teach the children to love and respect their pets.
